Participants join this discussion to explore emerging trends and challenges faced by companies and municipalities on their journey to net zero.

Business, government and community leaders are focused on ensuring that environmental, economic and public health efforts to rebuild post-pandemic lead to more equitable outcomes. Participants are invited to discuss cross-sector collaborations and innovative solutions that can help advance a sustainable, inclusive, and equitable recovery.

This discussion focuses on the technological breakthroughs and widespread collaboration needed to decarbonize transportation, with an emphasis on efforts related to commercial and heavy-duty vehicles. Learn how corporate adoption and greater investment in supporting infrastructure will transform the transportation sector.
