Ashburton Water Treatment Plant & Patapsco Wastewater Treatment Plant - Baltimore City

On December 15, 1997, the U.S. Justice Department filed a complaint in federal court in Baltimore on behalf of EPA charging the City with Clean Water Act violations associated with the wastewater discharges at the Ashburton Water Treatment Plant and the Patapsco Wastewater Treatment Plant. MDE is a partner with EPA in the judicial action and filed a motion to intervene as a plaintiff at the same time that Justice filed. The suit asks for a court order requiring corrective action at both plants to comply with discharge permit requirements and seeks appropriate penalties for past effluent violations. Although a proposed Consent Decree had been extensively negotiated with the City in an effort to avoid litigation, the City refused to sign the Consent Decree by the requested date of December 12, 1997, prompting the filing of the complaint and motion to intervene.

Status: Case Pending. (Reference #JO-98-0035).

Hurlock Wastewater Treatment Plant - Dorchester County

On November 10, 1997, MDE issued an administrative consent order to the Town of Hurlock requiring corrective actions at the wastewater treatment plant to ensure compliance with discharge permit effluent limitations. The consent order established interim effluent limitations until improvements are completed by October 1, 2000 in accordance with the approved compliance schedule. The consent order established a $4,125 penalty settlement for past violations of the biochemical oxygen demand (BOD) effluent limitations that occurred in October 1996 and April 1997.

Status: The penalty has been paid in full. (Reference #CO-98-0027).

Ocean Pines Wastewater Treatment Plant - Worcester County

On September 24, 1997, MDE and the Worcester County Department of Water and Wastewater reached a settlement agreement to resolve the mandatory penalty assessment for significant effluent violations during the period May through August 1996.

MDE and Cecil County Work Together for Landfill Improvements

Cecil County Central Landfill's runoff is clean and clear thanks to the dedication of Cecil County employees

The Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) and Cecil County government, landfill employees and citizens have worked to build a cooperative partnership to cleanup the Cecil County Central Landfills. Thanks to some innovative solutions and persistence Cecil County's historical landfill sediment and erosion problems are a thing of the past.

"Landfill employees have been working diligently over the past two years to solve the sediment and erosion control problems," said Cecil County Commission President Oakley A. Sumpter, Jr. "Through innovative measures, they have come up with a solution which has effectively eliminated sediment discharges into the Northeast Creek. While this approach fulfills MDE compliance, it satisfies, more importantly, the residents along the creek who dealt with these problems after each rainfall."

For many years, the Cecil County Central Landfill, near Northeast, has been troubled with sediment discharges into Northeast Creek and general sediment and erosion control problems. Constant land surface exposure because of landfilling and the effects of rain and weather causes soil to run off into drainage structures and eventually into the waters of our state. Time and again Cecil County has responded to site stabilization problems with necessary grading, seeding and mulching. The clay soil at and around the landfill also is a challenge to those working on the erosion problems at the landfill. Clay particles are extremely small, microscopic in fact. So small that they tend to remain suspended in water, often tainting the color. As a result, runoff from the Cecil Landfill has often caused a very distinctive and noticeable red coloration to the Northeast Creek.

With technical guidance and compliance assistance from MDE staff, Cecil County has recently made marked improvements. These improvements have come about from a rigorous County program of site stabilization, sediment pond and trap maintenance and more recently, treatment of the sediment basin stormwater with gypsum (calcium sulfate). The gypsum treatment provides a chemical bonding with the clay particles, which precipitates, or settles out, the clay particles from the water to the bottom of the sediment basin. The clay material is then removed from the basin through regular maintenance.

Recent inspections by MDE have found the landfill in compliance with sediment and erosion control requirements for the first time in many years. Inspections now report the stormwater discharges from the landfill as clean and clear. These tremendous accomplishments could not have been done without the hard work and dedication of Jim Keithley, Cecil County Solid Waste Manager, Ed Class MDE solid Waste Inspector and Bill Schmidt, MDE eastern Shore Regional Manager.

"It is evident that this success story not only reflects the support of the Cecil County Commissioners," said Rick Collins, Director of Waste Management for MDE, "but also the sense of pride and ownership so evident in the County's staff."
